How this listing was generated

The listing above was written by Capture from the photos, using the inputs below.

Generation guidance

Generation guidance is optional free text the user adds when capturing an item - anything the photos alone cannot show, such as provenance, known faults, included accessories or what to emphasise. Capture passes it to the AI as context alongside the photos, so it directly informs the title, description and item specifics.

fully functional and tested. camera and battery included.

Questions at capture

As soon as the first photo is taken, Capture recognises what kind of item it is and immediately shows a short set of relevant questions - the details buyers care about for that type of item and that are easiest to confirm while the item is still in hand, such as size, material or what is included. The user answers these on the spot, and the answers are passed to the AI as confirmed facts alongside the photos.

1. Does the camera power on?

Yes

2. What accessories are included?

Select all that apply.

Clarifying questions from Capture

While writing the listing, Capture reviews the photos, guidance and answers above. Where it still wants further clarification on a detail it cannot determine confidently - a brand, an exact model, a measurement - it asks the user directly rather than guessing. The answers are used as additional context for the listing. Skipped questions are left to the AI's own judgement.

Capture did not need any further clarification for this item.
